WESTON MAY WALK BACK TO NEW YORK

Would Retrace Steps if Sufficient Lecture

san Francisco, Cal., July 15.—Having completed my walk from New York with to San Francisco last night, and allowed a restrui sleep, I walked to the cost office building here this morning and delivered to Postmaster Fiske of San Francisco a letter which I carried in my walk from Postmaster Morgan of New York city. I received a cordial greeting from Postmaster Fiske and his subordinates.

A pleasant incident of my arrival at Cakland last night was the hearty welcome and congratulations extended to me by officials and employes of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. This company did so much for me that I fall to find words to express my appreciation.

The expenses of this walk were upward of $2,500. Some dozen prominent cities in the East have made offers to arrange for testimonial lectures on my financial loss, but to show that my object lesson in the journey, in striving to elevate in popular esteem the exercise of walking, is appreciated.

If within the next two weeks I shall receive assurances from a sufficient number of cities and towns between Comaha and New York that they will arrange for lectures and send such

A bed bug crawling on your children's clothes when away from home does not speak well of that home, but instead gives to your friends a lasting impression of neglect and carelessness in that home and is often whispered around among other friends of the family. Such unpleasant comment could have been avoided if you had used Cyrus Presto Killer for Bedbugs. The cost is only 25 cents and would have effectually cleaned the bed.

There are three very dear friends who energetically oppose this extra walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation, and that it walk, but when I convince them that it is my only salvation.

I fail to find words to express my appreciation.

Regarding my feelings and condition I would say that I feel like uttering bitter words, but do not feel inclined to make excuses.

I have received hundreds of letters and telegrams congratulating me on my wonderful achievement, and each one makes me wish I deserved it. Full of vigor and strength, I am disappointed that the elements were against me, and I frankly acknowledge that had it not been for the unbounded kindness of the officers and employes of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, I should not have dared to come further than Ogden, Utah. I practically had the right of way on the railroad, and every engineer tooted the whistle on his engine as it passed me.

I contend I waked a distance of upward of 4,000 miles in 104 days and 5 hours, and while it exceeds the distance between New Yore and San Francisco nearly 700 miles, and far excels any previous record, yet technically it is a failure, and I do not feel inclined to close my public career with a failure.

The expenses of this walk were up-New Haven, July 16.—The report of the finance committee on Yale athletics and the maintenance of Yale field for the year which closed with the close of the college athletic season as given in the commencement number of the Yale Alumni Weekly, which has just been issued, contains some interesting figures showing the relative popularity of the different major sports and the amount of money extends to find the control of the Yale Alumni Weekly. counting for $966.81.

In the matter of expenditures for this branch of sport there were $2,110-42 for traveling and $2,876.12 for hotels and meals. Merchandise and sporting goods ran up to $2,496.07. The training table cost $2,195.32. Three games on the schedule showed losses which had to be overcome, these games being the Tufts game where $12.45 was dropped, Syracuse with $62.50 and Dartmouth with $44.99.

Track team accounts and boating account of course show a much larger expense account than receipts. The athletic association reports receipts of $1.414.40, of which the Princeton meet netted $342.82 and the Boston A. A. meet $354.85. The expenses for this branch of sport reached $12,088.33.

Traveling for the track team is credited with $2,125.61; hotels and meals with $1,369.96; merchandise and sporting goods with $676.70, and the training table $1,719.84.

The boating association reports receipts of $3,899.32 and expenses of $19,-642.21. The boat club receipts have for the principal item the freshman account of $1,899.52, and the returns from the Observation train, which were $1,551.23. STRONG DEFENSE FOR HARRY THAW

Judge Mills Thus Sums up the Testimony so Far Introduced.

PRISONER IN TRAINING

White Plains, N. Y., July 16 .- Harry gan a systematic course of physical and mental training in preparation for the society. his ordeal on the stand before Judge Mills on July 26, upon which will depend entirely his chance of becoming once more a free man. Thaw realizes that he has won a victory so far as the proceedings have gone in this hears ing and that, if he makes a favorable impression he will undoubtedly be liberated. Judge Mills said last night in summing up the case so far: "The testimony introduced to date tends to testimony introduced to date tends to make strong defense for the prisoner."

Distirct Attorney Mack of the Duchess County, the only one of the state's attorneys who knows anything about the previous case, stated that the state intended to make no effort to controvert the sanity evidence and made a plea for the court to direct Thaw to support to an examination in private plea for the court to direct Thaw to submit to an examination in private by alienists. "We contend that Thaw could have done all these things related by his witnesses and still be a paranolac." Mack said. "In fact he knows more about the case than any of his attorneys and is a very well informed man and very bright. The alienists whom we will call will state that Paranola is a series of systematic illusions and do not detract from his mind at all. Now in order for the alienists to determine his mental condition they must know the tal condition they must know the clinical history of the case and no selfrespecting alienist will testify here un-less he is given this opportunity by

But the court ruled against any private inquiry by alienists. Judge Mills declared that if Thaw was reported to have acted wildly when the murder of Stanford White was mentioned he didn't see why the hearing could not be held in open court and allow the judge to get all the information first hand. A hurried consultation among the state's allenists who tion among the state's alienists who were plainly disappointed resulted in were plainly disappointed resulted in the declaration that, if the alienists were to be limited in their private examination of Thaw they would not hold any private examination. And so every question that will be asked of Thaw will be asked in open court. It is certain that if none of the at

It is certain that if none of the attorneys or allemists ask Thaw the question Judge Mills himself will ask him, "Why did you kill Stanford White?" The whole case now depends upon the ability of the state to substantiate the theory that Thaw's mind is filled with the delusions about White's alleged practice and protection of young girls. Thaw is certain that he can demonstrate that he is perfectly sane. His mother visited him to-day and

His mother visited him to-day and then he took his regular exercise and went to work on his case. He will follow this routine every day until he is called to the stand. "I am happy to-day," said Thaw, "and I am sure that I can demonstrate my absolute sanity. I am willing to be asked any question about myself or my crime or my life or my ideas by anyone. But I my life or my ideas by anyone. But I want these questions to be asked in the presence of the judge who can then judge whether I act like an insane man. It would be easy for alienists to retire with me to a little room and to retire with me to a little room and ask me a lot of questions in rapid fire succession, then come back to the court and say that I brushed a fly off my nose when there was no fly there. Now, I want the judge to see just how I act and I am glad that he took that view of the case too. As for the allenists I think this decision will discount their testimony pretty much. Of ists I think this decision will discount their testimony pretty much. Of course they will be put on the stand and testify that I act like a paranolac but then my allenists will go on the stand and say that I do not then it will be up to the judge to decide. "They can ask me any question about my life or my ideas and I will answer all of them. I have refused to answer such questions heretofore because the questions were not always fair. But now I will answer anything they ask.
